

Disease or Pandemic

By A. Kukushkin

It is called the disease of three centuries.

It brought many troubles to humanity.

The name of this disease is socialism.

Like a virus, it even penetrated into the capitalist countries, leading to the gradual intellectual degradation of society. And this is especially evident in the example of the sad fate of tests to determine intelligence - IQ. These tests could change the world. But the world turned them upside down.

While two bearded German dwarfs - Marx and Engels - were writing their fairy tales about how the proletarians, who are smart enough only to stand at the machine, are the most advanced and progressive class on the planet, a European scientist named David Veksler worked in a completely different direction. He decided not to believe in fairy tales, but to take and measure human intelligence, evaluating it not just qualitatively (<genius>, <fool>) but quantitatively, in numbers. To determine who is worth and deserves what in this world.

To do this, Veksler developed a system of microtasks for intelligence and assigned them points depending on the complexity. The more points a person scores, the smarter he is. This is how the test system was born.

definition of the coefficient of intelligence - IQ. Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels died earlier, so they did not find out that their theory that all people are born equal and all their abilities are exclusively the fruit of upbringing was dealt the first terrible blow.

The second blow was dealt by genetics, which stated: the characteristics of people - eye color, height, basic character traits, quick wits - depend on genes. That is, people are not initially equal. And if you are stupid or ugly, complaining about society is pointless.

So, two irreconcilable theories collided in the world. And it was by no means the intellect that won this clash, because the simple guys who make up the masses just entered the historical stage. Simple guys - simple theories. Take away and divide: I am a beggar, not because I am a fool, but because the world is unfair:

Justice, however, requires that at first no one noticed the contradictions between Marxism and genetics, socialism and IQ tests. Only later, in the socialist USSR, genetics was declared a corrupt girl of imperialism, and intelligence tests were "bourgeois perversions directed against workers."

The bourgeoisie themselves were enthusiastic. Now, when applying for a job that required thinking, one could simply take a test and determine the suitability of the employee. Yes, and to take the most intelligent to the university, because teaching a fool is just wasting money.

The US government was one of the first to use the test system. The idea was simple. A lot of emigrants come to the country, but why do we need fools?

Let's weed out the intellectually insufficient audience at the entrance! No sooner said than done. Right in the filtration camp on Ellis Island, tests were organized for newly arriving emigrants.

The results shocked the researchers: 83% of Jews, 79% of Italians, 80% of Hungarians and 87% of Russians were recognized as "feeble-minded" according to the test results. We started to figure it out. And it turned out that most of the new arrivals know English very poorly and simply do not understand the test items. I had to make adjustments to the tests. But while this was realized, the percentage of refusals to enter the country increased almost six times!

US psychologists also managed to convince the military to test recruits. The military loves to spend taxpayer money, so two million recruits were tested, psychologists got new data, and the Department of Defense had a discouraging result: The average American recruit had an IQ of a 13-year-old child. And what was the military to do with this data? Give up war? And this meant that rural children in the information-poor environment of the village were about five years behind in development from poor urban children. Which you can't lure into the army with a roll.

And psychologists made the following conclusion: it turns out that intelligence depends not only on genes, but also on the environment, that is, upbringing! It can be developed!

This idea was immediately grasped by the liberal-minded intelligentsia, which absorbed the Marxist ideas of universal equality and universal justice. Now it remained only to answer one question: how much do we train the intellect, and how much is it laid down by nature?

Curiously, IQ tests first put equality activists like the suffragettes (the first generation of feminists) on the podium: they were greatly encouraged by the published data that the average Broadway dancer had an IQ higher than the average American military man. But then, when tests showed that women were, on average, dumber than men, feminist opinion IQ tests have changed dramatically. There were even voices about their ban, as discriminatory and degrading women.

Meanwhile, IQ tests in the United States were already being used with might and main and everywhere - with their help, universities tested applicants, entrepreneurs recruited smarter employees. The peak of IQ's success came in the fifties. But the sixties brought with them a mass movement for the rights of blacks, a general increase in the popularity of socialist ideas and a sharp leftist society (later expressed in the youth revolution of 1968).

Human rights activists demanded the abolition of IQ tests, because of them, blacks are not admitted to universities! This is racism! The following test tasks caused the greatest anger among the defenders: to name the capital of Greece, explain what the words <solitude> and <hara-kiri> mean. <Why should an Afro-American know the capital of Greece?> - they were indignant. As a result, in 1964, in educational institutions in New York, intelligence tests were drastically simplified, throwing out all verbal questions from there and leaving only pictures to make it easier for blacks to answer.

However, scientists were not going to give up. In the late sixties, the famous psychologist Arthur Jensen published a huge study that proved that, on average, the IQ of blacks was at least 10 points behind the IQ of white people. He also answered a question regarding the development of intelligence: 80% of intelligence is determined by genes and only 20% by training.

In general, there was nothing surprising in his conclusions. Everyone knows about the differences between people of different races. Some races are black, others are narrow-eyed, some are tall, others are short. Some have higher levels of testosterone in the blood, while others have lower levels. Blacks do better than whites, for example, in boxing, because they have an average thicker skull, respectively, less likely to break through to a knockout: Mongoloid organisms almost do not absorb cow's milk and alcohol, unlike Caucasians: The number of sweat glands, the shape of the skull, the degree of alpha wave radiation in the brain of newborns, the tendency to color blindness, the galvanic resistance of the skin: All this varies from race to race, and all this is determined by genetics. But intelligence is also determined by genetics! And, therefore, it can also have racial variations.

However, the socialists and other leftists did not want to agree with the last statement. Now, if Jensen wrote that blacks are smarter than whites, no one would argue with him and would not call him a racist. But touching black people - God forbid, even if it's true!

In general, Jensen was accused of racism. The socialist Soviet Union winged Jensen with the name of St. Marx and St. Engels how much in vain. The Soviet press broadcast: "A great achievement for the Blacks in the fight against Jensenism and racism was the adoption in September 1975 by the Negro Psychological Association of the recommendation "to develop and submit to the United Nations a petition accusing the United States of genocide against to black Americans.

By the way, the chairman of this association of black psychologists, united by the color of their skin, repaid the Soviets in kind, saying: "Look closely, social changes are taking place all around us. In Africa, Asia, South America, the Caribbean and even Europe, socialism is making its sprouts... The era of socialism is coming, and this is quite obvious. And our ancestors in Africa had socialism long before the start of colonial exploitation."

Socialism actively fought against IQ! culture.

And also, because blacks are on average poorer and therefore illiterate.

To this, scientists were answered: Blacks live in the same culture as white Americans and speak the same language. But Asians arriving in the US both speak badly and belong to a completely different culture. And all the same, they solve tests better than blacks! As for poverty, Indians in the USA are poorer than blacks. But the tests, again, solve better than the last ones!

Jensen was supported by dozens of specialists, including Nobel laureates. They cited data that in California 62% of students in classes for the mentally retarded children are blacks, while Blacks make up only 28% of all students: They said that stating a scientific fact is not racism. And if, on average, in terms of intelligence, blacks are inferior to whites, and women to men, then there is nothing wrong with that - anyway, in the capitalist race, everyone competes individually, not as a team.

Then the socialists and other supporters of team races came up with a new trick, they began to argue that intelligence is a much broader concept than just the ability to think logically. Yes, blacks can't do something that whites do well (indeed, there are practically no black mathematicians, philosophers, physicists, programmers), but blacks perfectly weave macrame and invented jazz. While the liberal socialists were looking for consolation in jazz, physiologists and anthropologists joined the cause.

They stated that the lag of blacks in IQ may be due to their general evolutionary lag - whites simply outstripped blacks in development by several thousand years. Therefore, whites have an average of 100 g more brain than blacks. In addition, the development of the brain in a black child is not the same as in a white one - at first, black children develop faster than white children in terms of motor and mental activity, but starting from the age of five, black children lag behind: the development of the frontal lobes responsible for logic and abstract thinking ends in them at an earlier age than whites. At the same time, these frontal lobes of blacks are less developed and have fewer convolutions than whites. (In young apes, the development of the frontal lobes and motor activity is even faster than that of blacks, but it ends much earlier.) That is why, the researchers said, the blacks never created civilization, there were no Kants and Beethovens, Columbus and Archimedes among them. It's just that once the evolutionary branches of humanity diverged, no one is to blame: Baker, Iznek, Jensen, Peterson, Garrett, Pinter, Shui, Tyler and Yerkes unanimously agreed that blacks are inferior to whites in logical and abstract thinking, in mathematics and speculative memory. Finally, Professor Henry Garrett, in one of his statistically crammed books, cited data that for 1 black gifted child, there are 7-8 gifted white children.

At the same time, 80% of gifted blacks are of mixed blood (with whites or Asians). From a genetic point of view, this is how it should be.

But not in terms of political correctness! Which, gradually becoming the dominant ideology in the West and being actively promoted by leftists and Marxists, gradually became a censorship gag for scientific research and a brake on the way of IQ tests.

Another fact that the good-hearted liberal socialists actively disliked was the following: according to all the IQ measurements taken in different countries, the poor were much more stupid than rich. It would seem that it is natural that fools live worse than smart ones. But socialists turn everything upside down: they are supposedly not poor because they are stupid, but, on the contrary, they are stupid because they are poor! And as soon as they get money out of the budget, all them will grow wiser at once.

Foaming at the mouth, liberal socialists argued that it was possible to bring up Christ from Chikatila (Andrei Chikatilo, serial killer) by education, and whoever says otherwise is a racist. And that people are born like white sheets - what you write on them is what you get.

This theory was dealt a powerful blow by the great English scientist Cyril Burt. He conceived and carried out an experiment of genius in its simplicity.

If IQ is determined by genetics, then twins who are genetic copies should have the same IQ, even if they are raised in different families!

Burt proved with all irrefutability: the IQ of the genetic copies really turned out to be the same, despite the sometimes very different upbringing.

The socialists had nothing to cover. And then one of them came up with a brilliant idea: if it is impossible to prove that Bert is wrong, let's prove that he is a scoundrel! A lot of accusations of falsifying materials fell upon Bert, that in his works he expressed gratitude to never-existing assistants (why would he need this, I wonder?)

Only after many years, all these accusations fell apart - there were both assistants and sources. But it was too late - the Western world was gripped by an epidemic of political correctness and affirmations.

Affirmation is the giving of preferential rights to backward groups of the population. So, for example, in modern America it is easier for an Afro-American or a woman to get a job or enter a university. In the USSR, there was also such a practice when entering universities, only in that country the role of blacks was played by those who served in the army and became utterly stupid there, various workers of the faculty, veterans of the Afghan war, etc. - for them the passing score was lower.

What does such a policy lead to? It destroys the world, like alcohol destroys the liver.

The entire past thousand-year evolution of mankind was a natural selection for the best - people with a good mind received the benefits.

They built civilization. It was in this direction that the inventors of intelligence tests wanted to push humanity. But it turned out the opposite: Western ballers firmly stuck the label of racism and chauvinism on IQ tests.

In 1979, a California court banned the use of tests to send students to remedial classes. Poor IQ test results in the West today cannot be grounds for refusing a job, even if a complete idiot comes to be hired. In many countries, when applying for a job, tests are generally prohibited. They are not taken into account when applying to universities and colleges. On the contrary, often the advantage of admission is given to the stupid rather than the smart. It means that instead of natural selection for the best, Western liberal socialists have included in society an unnatural selection for the worst. The selection is not for survival, but for extinction.

And here is the result: In the politically incorrect year of 1973, just five years after the assassination of the famous black rights activist Martin Luther King, the salary of white and black college graduates is just slightly differed - white graduates received only 3.7% more. But in 1989, soaked through with political correctness, when discrimination in half a kick can get you on trial, the salary of white graduates exceeded the salary of blacks by as much as 15.5%! Why is it that blacks, despite all the preferences, never manage to earn at least on a par with whites, why do their incomes fall? And because of the preferences! Because they turned out crappy specialists who got into college just for the color of their skin. Clients know the price of such specialists and do not want to pay them:

Maybe the market will put everything in its place? It wouldn't be too late:
